THE PROPOSED NEW REFORMATORY.

There should be no delay at Albany in Question of Awarding to Her a Mrs. Muchmore's Admirable Work passing the Sulzer bill for the establishment of a State reformatory for women in New York or Kings County. No opposition to the bill develops, because wisdom of its provisions and the existence Discussion of This Topic Closes at Tots Made Happy in a Novel School of a demand for the institution proposed cannot be gainsaid.

There will be ample moral and economic return from every dollar which the State puts into the building and its con-

The two reformatories already estab lished have been markedly successful in their purpose of removing young women from hardening influences and of turning from wrong paths upon which they may have entered without a thought of a continued evil life. It is important that New York and Brooklyn, getting no benefit from the Hudson and Rochester reformatories, should have such an institution of their own.

It is wisely provided in the bill that the Board of Management of the proposed institution shall include two women. There will also, of course, be a female Superintendent or Matron. No insane persons are to be admitted, and the general methods of discipline and conduct of affairs in the buildings will be in line with the reformatory idea rather than that of the strict penitentiary.

AFTER TRIBUTE FROM THE PEOPLE. Disguise the facts as they may, it still remains true that in forming the Reading coal combine the men engaged in the deal have joined together in order that they may be strong to exact tribute from the coal consumers. Unless the law can provide means of breaking up the conspiracy the corporations will succeed, and the poor man, who must fill his coalbin, will pay for the success.

The thwarting of the schemers is a matter of vital interest to the great public. In and about New York City and a little range of fifty-five miles, it is estimated that ten million tons of coal are used annually. The purpose of the combine is to make every ton cost more than it does now, and while it is true that the output and probably the amount used will be re duced-should the plotters have their way-it is also true that the extra tribute demanded will be a vast one.

There never was an instance prescrited more clearly demanding law's stern intervention to protect the rights of the people.

The story comes from the Oyster Bay the plugs in a boat which he found thieves were about to utilize to carry off his chickens. Soon after pushing off the thieves had to pull for shore again in a tain got his chickens back, the robbers got a good freezing, and the story ends joyfully here.
